

The I-neb is my neb.

*“The I-neb AAD wasn’t difficult to get used to.
I did really well
the first time
I used it.”*

—Tricia S
I-neb user since 2006

Many people have made Ventavis and the I-neb AAD a part of their lives. You can do it, too.

Ventavis[®]
(iloprost) INHALATION
SOLUTION

Please see important safety information inside.

It's easy to see why so many people are saying "The I-neb is my neb."

It's designed for your ease of use

- No need for difficult assembly or disassembly, as with some nebulizers
- No daily, weekly, or monthly scheduled part replacement
 - Chamber lid is the only scheduled replacement
- Only once-a-day cleaning and weekly boil—no daily boiling required

It adapts to your breathing pattern

- Smart technology learns your unique breathing pattern
- Adaptability means you'll get the right amount of medicine delivered right to your lungs

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION: Because it lowers your blood pressure, Ventavis may cause dizziness, lightheadedness, and fainting. With Ventavis, the most common side effects are reddening of the face caused by dilation of blood vessels (flushing), increased cough, low blood pressure (hypotension), headaches, nausea, spasm of the jaw muscles that causes trouble opening your mouth, and fainting (syncope); other serious adverse events reported with the use of Ventavis include congestive heart failure, chest pain, supraventricular tachycardia, dyspnea, peripheral edema, and kidney failure. Before you start taking Ventavis, talk to your doctor to make sure you understand the side effects you might get.

You can take it
with you

- Unlike some nebulizers, the I-neb AAD isn't big and bulky—you can take your treatments almost anywhere, as prescribed*
- Up to 40 uses per battery charge
- Small and lightweight—fits into a purse or jacket pocket

6 to 9 times a day as prescribed by your doctor.
No more than once every 2 hours.*

Please see accompanying full prescribing information.

"The once-a-day cleaning saved a lot of time. It gave me the convenience to take it to the mall or on a sightseeing trip or anywhere else."

—Wayne T, I-neb AAD user since 2006

"It's so small and portable. You don't have to have a big purse to carry it around. It's lightweight and I can just take it anywhere and just put it together and go for it."

—Debbie C, I-neb AAD user since 2006

"I had in my mind this notion of, you know, one of those things that had the tube hanging out and steam coming in and out and all the stuff.... So, when the nurse came in with this little machine, I thought, wow!"

—Billie O, I-neb AAD user since 2006

Make the I-neb your neb

- Designed for your ease of use
- Adapts to your breathing pattern
- Fully portable, so you have the freedom to take it with you
